

A DELICATE CHILD

Made Strong By Our Vinol

Fayetteville, N. C.—"My little daughter was in poor health, delicate and so weak it made us very uneasy. I heard about Vinol and decided to try it and the results were marvelous, her appetite improved, she gained in weight, and is now one of the healthiest children in town. Mothers of delicate children should try Vinol."—Mrs. GORDON JESSUP.

Vinol is a delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, a constitutional remedy which creates an appetite, aids digestion and makes pure healthy blood. All children love to take it.

SHRINES IN CHINA.

One on Mount Omei Often Lures an Enthusiast to Death.

On the climbing hill roads in western China on the lower slopes of Omei, the sacred mountain, may be seen now and then a motley procession of Chinese of all ranks wearing strings of "cash" around their necks and carrying yellow bags, bound for the presence of the many shrines. The strings of cash are for the mendicants, inseparable concomitant of worship in the Orient.

The road leads upward through forests of ash and pine, pleasantly cool after the heat of the eastern plains. Some of the wealthier are carried on uncomfortable little wooden saddles strapped to the backs of coolies, but the majority seek salvation on foot. As one pants higher and higher one comes to the first of the monasteries, a new structure, low and cool. Almost all the monasteries are new.

Mount Omei is uncomfortably close to heaven in some ways. Lightning bolts strike the buildings frequently, and the whole top has been burned over again and again. Nevertheless more than 2,000 monks dwell here, and to fulfill all their duty the pious must burn tapers before sixty-two shrines. There is the Hall of the Tranquil Heart and the Gate of Heaven, through which you come to the Monastery of Everlasting Joy.

The most beautiful spot on Mount Omei is a jutting ledge above an almost bottomless precipice. The spot is called the Rejection of the Body. Many a mystic, intoxicated by endless distance and dizzying height, has solved here all the problems of religion by a single step over the brink—Argonaut.

MILLIONS OF MARBLES.

There Are Many Uses For Them Besides the Small Boys' Games.

It has been estimated by statisticians that more than 200,000,000 small clay marbles are used by the boys of the United States every springtime. It is a known fact that 125,000,000 marbles are made every year by one clay marble manufacturer. And these marbles are made or rolled by young girls.

The marble manufacturer does not devote all his attention to the manufacturing of the "game marble." There are various uses to which the marble is put, and, as a matter of fact, the size varies according to its intended use. The Standard Oil company is one of the largest buyers of marbles, and these are used for oil cans, and larger sizes are started in graded pipe lines to clean out the paraffin which gathers on the side of the pipe as it flows to the tanks.

Clay marbles are used also by the manufacturers of rubber, ink and salt, chemical and powder makers. They are used also in grinding the large stones of the lithographer and by railway supply people. Puzzle box makers are also large buyers of marbles.

The sizes of the clay marbles as made in the United States vary from nine-sixteenths of an inch in diameter, which is the small "pill" the boys play with, to one measuring six inches in diameter, or about the size of a small cannon ball—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Vastness of South America.

The vastness of South America is little understood. I travel about 30,000 or 40,000 miles each year trying to cover my circuit. It takes me longer to go between the extreme points, from Panama by steamer down the west coast and on through the strait of Magellan to Asuncion, Paraguay, than it would take to go from San Francisco to Cairo and back to Glasgow.

You think of Bolivia as a little country. It is as big as Germany, Austria and England. Peru is as large as all the United States from Nova Scotia to Indiana, from Canada south to the gulf. Argentine equals all the United States west of Omaha. Brazil is a United States with another Texas added. The resources of that vast area are in keeping with the bigness of the continent—Homer C. Stuntz in World Outlook.

How a Bird Dresses.

As bird fashions do not change, two suits a year are quite enough for most birds, but they need to take great care of them. Each separate feather must be cleaned and looked over and the useless ones pulled out. These feathers are not packed close together, you know, but lie loose and have places between filled with air. When a bird wants to get warmer he lifts his feathers so that these air spaces may be larger. But if his feathers are tangled or wet and dirty he could not raise them, and soon he could not keep the head in his little body and would, of course, die.

Splendid Rheumatism.

"I think Chamberlain's Liniment is just splendid for rheumatism," writes Mrs. Dunbar, N. Y. "It has been used by myself and other members of my family time and time again during the past six years and has always given the best of satisfaction." The quick relief from pain which Chamberlain's Liniment affords is alone worth many times the cost. Obtainable everywhere.

Locating the Imbecile.

Victor Hugo was a victim to the thirteen superstition. At a house where Hugo had been asked to dinner one of the other guests, after waiting some time, asked the hostess why they were so late sitting down to table. She explained that, a guest having failed her, she had been compelled to send for another to avoid the party mustering thirteen.

A few minutes later the same guest started talking to Hugo. "Do you know why we are kept waiting?" asked the latter. "Yes," came the reply. "Because some imbecile is afraid to sit down thirteen to dinner." Solemnly and severely the poet rejoined, "L'imbecile, c'est moi."

GOOD DEEDS.

In man's mad strife for wealth and luxury it were well to remember these words from the Koran: "When a man dies they who survive him ask what property he has left behind. The angel who bends over the dying man asks what good deeds he has sent before him."

Peevishness covers with its dark fog even the most distant horizon.—Richter.

For Representative.

To the Democratic Voters of Putnam County:
Gentlemen: I will be a candidate for Representative in the primaries of June 5th. I have served you through two legislative sessions, and men who know will tell you that I have a record for doing things. I secured the passage of every measure I ever introduced, and helped to kill some vicious legislation. I want to serve you again. Our taxes are too high, and they are getting higher every year; perhaps you have noticed that fact. If elected I am going to put a stop to this increase, or be able to come home and give a valid reason for my failure. But my legislative Dictionary will contain no such word as FAIL. Help me by your votes to this place. I will thank you and will not disappoint you. Sincerely yours,
W. A. RUSSELL.
Crescent City, March 9th.
